

Grants 101

Wednesday
October 18, 2017

10:00 - 11:30am

Kate Gleason Auditorium

Central Library of Rochester & Monroe County

115 South Avenue, Rochester NY

Brockport Research Institute President and CEO Dr. Sara Silverstone will provide an overview of the grant writing process for educational, government, and not-for-profit organizations. From identifying government, corporate and private funding opportunities that best match an organization's needs to drafting a compelling, data-based narrative, "Grants 101" will help new grant writers to understand the funding process, create a competitive proposal, and communicate with program managers and private funders before, during, and after the funding process.

*Presented by Brockport Research Institute & the

Pre-registration for this free program is requested. Register online under the Events section or by calling the Central Library Business & Social Sciences Division at 585-428-8130.
